ISABELLE'S KITCHEN TEA
Grandma's Apple Pie
An afternoon picnic of shared recipes was the scene for Bella's Kitchen Tea. A handwritten poem, and commemorative-ten tassel, illustrating a family recipe was bound with red ribbon and sent to guests.

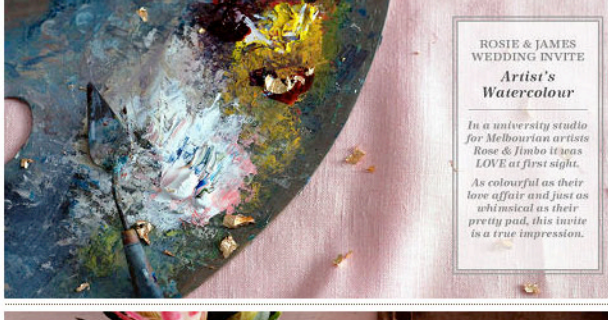

if i had to pick one area in the world i'm most interested in exploring more deeply it would be australia, hands down. there are so many exciting shops, designers, and students working there that i've already starting saving up to travel there next year for the d*s book tour. australia, here we come! ok, back to the point: i love hearing from australian design teams, so i was excited to hear from sisters billie and zoe about their new stationery company: zed & bee.

Join us for a kitchen tea, in honour of The Bride to Be. At her cousin Diego's house for treats and herbal tea. A steaming Drop Dish Apple Pie or Flourless Chocolate Cake. Please bring along the recipe you're always asked to make. We'll present it to the bride on the hope to impart. Recipes that warm the belly and also warm the heart. Pull out your aprons, prepare a sample of your dish. That your plate goes with milk tea is not only with. Proud in your domain, our Bride is keen to be a wife. Let's celebrate with the cherished women in her life. Please RSVP before the tenth to let us know you're able to join us for a festive day around the picnic table.

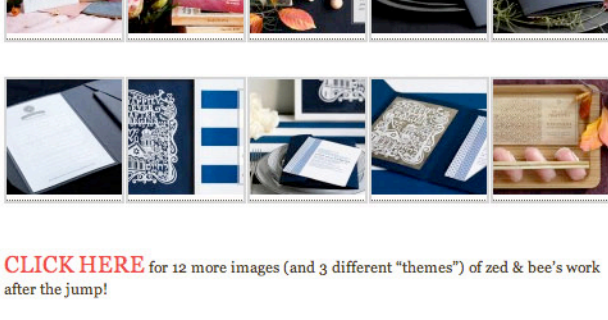

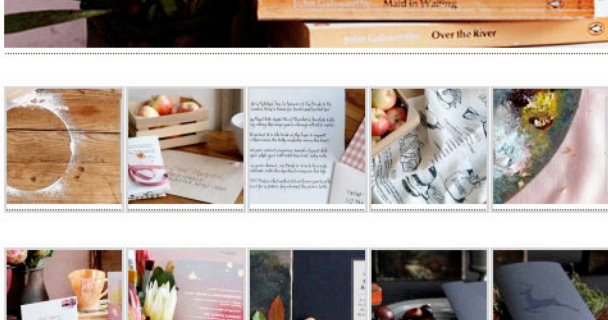

based in leichhardt (a suburb of sydney), zoe and billie specialize in modern invitation designs, focusing on using unique concepts and techniques whenever possible. i really loved the layout (and photo styling) on their site, and enjoyed being walked through the invite suites like a story, from start to finish. the kitchen and "guy's retreat" are my favorite styles, but the watercolor package is gorgeous as well. if you're looking for a little paper art inspiration this morning, click here to check out zed & bee's website and here for their blog.

ROSIE & JAMES WEDDING INVITE Artist's Watercolour
In a university studio for Melbourne artists Rosie & James discuss LOVE at first sight. As colourful as their love affairs and just as whimsical as their pretty past, this invite is a true impression.

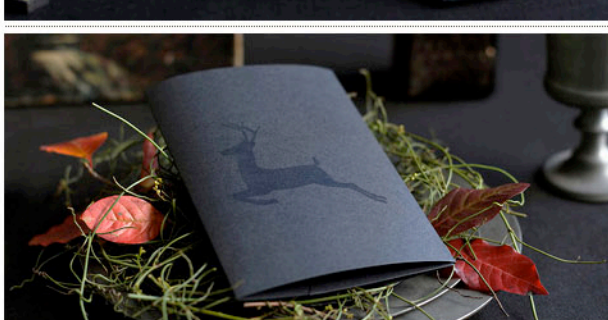

Together with their families ROSIE ADAMS & JAMES ROBINSON Request the pleasure of your company at their wedding. Includes the length of September THE SCOTTS CHURCH Corner of Collins & Phillip Streets, Melbourne. COMME 7:00pm. Reception to follow.

THOMAS BUCKS INVITE The Ultimate Boys Weekend
A members only loft in Tasmania was the destination for this decadent bucks event. A 'secret message' and travel booklet within a wax sealed pocketfold envelope set a luxurious tone.

papercut project below features a beautiful papercut design by julene harrison:

LILY & SAMUEL WEDDING INVITE Jewish Paper Cut
This bride and groom consider their love a marriage of modern and traditional. Jewish Paper Cuts inspired collaboration with madebyjulene to produce a modern interpretation which then became the invite.
